U.S. TROOPS HEAD FOR BERLIN

Firemen Battle Mail Car Blaze Five Hours

Five Plead Guilty To Burglaries

Five members of a Central and Lower Bucks burglary ring pleaded guilty and were sentenced in Bucks County courts yesterday while the sixth Rudolph Boyance, 38, of Cornwells Heights waited for a September grand jury.

John D. Roberts, 23, of Chalfonte was sentenced to three to six years in the state penitentiary for forgery as well as burglary. John D. Hawkins, 25, of 699 West Trenton Ave., Morrisville, also charged with striking Falls Township Deputy Constable Raymond Fate Jr., got 10 months to four years in Bucks County prison.

Industrial School
John W. Malpass, 18, of Levittown was sentenced to serve three to 11½ months in county prison. Thomas G. Redd, 19, 1044 Bristol Pike, Andalusia, got an indefinite sentence to the state industrial school.

Judge John P. Fullam deferred sentencing Francis J. Massaro, 25, 581 Bellevue Ave., Pennell, the only member of the gang with no (Continued on Page 3, Col. 5)

These firemen of the Croydon Fire Company battled more than five hours last night to save a U. S. Mail train boxcar and its contents after a fire of undetermined origin swept the car as it passed through Croydon.

The blaze caused extensive damage despite the efforts of the fire fighters. The car carried a load of letters and parcel post, which also incurred heavy damage. (Courier-Times Photo)

Train Halts In Croydon

Fire of undetermined cause broke out in a U.S. Mail train boxcar passing through Bristol Township last night and took nearly five hours of fire fighting to bring under control.

The blaze, which caused extensive but undetermined damage to contents and the boxcar itself, was fought at Croydon opposite the Bristol Kartway along Route 13.

The boxcar contained parcel post packages and mail. It had been loaded in New York City and was destined for Kansas City Mo., enroute to Philadelphia when the outbreak occurred.

17-car Train
An engineer reportedly discovered the fire as the 17-car double-engine train approached Bristol Township. He informed railroad authorities at approximately 7:30 p.m. to have fire fighting apparatus waiting at Croydon.

Ray Hopkins, assistant fire chief of the Croydon Fire Company, directed the firemen at the scene. He said he believed the fire would not have been so bad if it had not become necessary at one point for the firemen to vacate the blazing boxcar.

Hopkins said railroad officials had him order his men from the car so that electricity in the overhead power lines could be turned on and the engines moved.

Croydon Fire Company joined other Bristol township Fire companies and all five Bristol Borough fire companies in fire fighting operations.

One Bristol fireman suffered smoke inhalation and was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital where he received treatment and was released. He is Dominick Nacito, 29, of 231 Franklin St., Bristol.

Taken To Bristol
The boxcar which caught fire was the second car behind the double-engine. After the engines were removed from the train, 15 boxcars behind were taken by another engine to Bristol.

Difficulty in unhooking the car, which caught fire from a boxcar behind the double-engine caused the second car to remain attached to the burning car throughout the entire period.

When the blaze was brought under control shortly after midnight, (Continued On Page 3, Col. 7)

Welcomed By Adenauer

Johnson Arrives In West Germany

BONN (UPI) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson arrived here today on a symbolic visit and assured West Germany the American people "do not intend to retreat" in Berlin.

Johnson warned "the masters of the Soviet Union and East Germany who have manufactured this (Berlin) crisis" that their acts could lead to "swift and emphatic" retribution.

Even as Johnson landed in a dramatic show of United States support for West Germany, 1,500 U.S. troops were rolling across West Germany in a convoy headed for West Berlin where they will reinforce the 5,000-man American garrison.

British Joined In
And the British quickly joined in with an announcement that they were sending a consignment of armored personnel carriers and 16 scout cars by train to reinforce its Berlin garrison of 3,000.

In an airport statement, Johnson said he had come to Germany as the personal representative of President Kennedy "to express a conviction, to convey a pledge, sound a warning, and to re-define a policy."

He said the American people and President Kennedy "are determined to fulfill all our obligations."

"We are not provocative, neither are we frightened," he said. "The American people have no genius for retreat, and we do not intend to retreat now."

Some 3,000 German people joined West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and other top government officials in welcoming Johnson in the cold and drizzly weather.

In West Berlin the city government expressed "unrestrained satisfaction" at the U.S. and British moves to bolster their garrisons, and prepared a rousing welcome for Johnson when he flies there later.

The whole operation added up to a definite demonstration by the Allies that they are determined to defend the rights of the West in Berlin.

Johnson, accompanied by retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, hero of breaking the Berlin blockade 12 years ago, was welcomed at Bonn's Wahn Airport by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and Gen. Friedrich Foertsch, inspector-general of West Germany's armed forces.

The West German government also passed the word to villages along the 18-mile route from the airport to downtown Bonn to give the American vice president and the general a rousing welcome.

"Nothing could be better in the interest of West Berlin than the United States vice president taking a first hand look," said a government spokesman Friday night after it was announced Johnson was coming.

1,500 Combat Ready

BERLIN (UPI) — A battle group of 1,500 American soldiers left its base near Mannheim today and headed for West Berlin under orders from President Kennedy to bolster the U.S. garrison in the isolated city.

A spokesman at the European headquarters of the U. S. Army, at Heidelberg, identified the unit as the 1st Battle Group of the 8th Infantry Divisions. The troops carried full combat gear.

The battle group started rolling from its base in a truck convoy at 6 a.m. heading over West Germany's superhighways toward the East German border.

The soldiers were expected to cross the border into Communist-held East Germany territory Sunday morning and to reach West Berlin sometime later Sunday. The trip is about 400 miles.

Citizens Take Heart

The two million citizens of West Berlin took heart from President Kennedy's action in sending his vice president and the 1,500 additional soldiers to this city isolated by Communist troops, tanks and barriers.

They saw in the moves a dramatic U. S. reply to Mayor Willy Brandt's call for counter-action against the Reds.

Lyndon B. Johnson is the highest U. S. official to visit the Red-encircled city since President Truman attended the talks at Potsdam — now in the Eastern Zone — 16 years ago.

Just last Tuesday, the day the Allied commandants in West Berlin delivered protest notes against the Communist border sealing to the Soviet commandant in East Berlin, Brandt called for "not just words, but political action."

Welcome Clay's Return

As heartening to the West Berliners as Johnson's visit was the fact that he was bringing with him retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, the man who commanded U. S. forces that broke the 1948-49 Berlin blockade.

UAW Voting Favors Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — Members of the United Auto Workers are approving a strike by a margin of 95 per cent, union leaders said today.

The strike votes from 500,000 workers at General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler were ordered last Sunday by the UAW executive board to back up the union's new contract demands.

The votes will be completed by Aug. 29, two days before present 1958 contracts between the UAW and the Big Three expire.

The executive board will meet again Aug. 29 to decide whether to single out one of the Big Three as a strike target if no progress is made by that time.

Good Evening!

Our Little Leaguers flying high.

Brockton, Mass., less than a breeze at Haddon Heights yesterday and Darien, Conn., even less than that today. Then on to Williamsport for defense of their world championship title.

These youngsters doing wonderfully, thank you. Maybe the Phillies should be watching?

Gene Mauch's gang lose their 21st in a row last night and that makes it the longest losing streak in major league history. One thing about the hapless Phillies: they've got people talking about 'em.

President Kennedy sends Vice President Johnson to West Germany to boost the morale of West Berlin and a wise move it was. We just can't sit over here and let our friends sweat it out without a bit of on-the-job interest.

Maybe equally significant is the fact that the President is sending a 1500-man Army battle group to reinforce the United States garrison in West Berlin. Since these reinforcements must move 110 miles through Soviet-controlled territory, this represents a rather dramatic show of strength.

City of Philadelphia having more troubles.

This time, it's the new modernistic Police Administration Building at 8th and Race on which work was ordered stopped because of the crumbling of concrete beams. We dunno, but maybe better for the City of Brotherly Love if it cajoled Bill Green into moving out to Pittsburgh.

High skies still on the near-exquisite side.

Warm day, cool night arrangement to continue right through the weekend and it's not at all hard to live with.

Always difficult for youngsters to decide what to be when they grow up. Our suggestion: Try being normal.

People succeed well in hiding wisdom: trouble is that ignorance is always evident.

Live too fast and you'll have to fast to live.

Another weekend of heavy traffic, as usual. Drive carefully, as usual, won't you?

Go to church tomorrow.

Homecoming Bitter For Mother Of 2

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Homecoming was bitter today for Mrs. Betty Jane Craig, mother of two young boys squeezed to death by a woman who said she had a long-suppressed desire "to hurt someone."

"We were going to try and be happy again," sobbed Mrs. Craig as she stepped off a train. "I couldn't wait to see my children again."

Mrs. Craig had been estranged from her husband, William R. Craig Jr., and she was coming to Milwaukee to try and effect a reconciliation.

"I think they would have made it all right this time," said a relative, Mrs. Craig, 28, had been married three times previously, but the children were born while she was married to Craig.

Mrs. Lucilla Adams, 34, admitted suffocating the boys—Donald, 4, and Ronald, 2 — early Friday morning. The bodies were found by their father when he returned from work.

Miss Adams said she was troubled by the thought of having to look for another job, difficulty with the children earlier in the day and "the unexplained urge to hurt someone." Thursday was to be her last day on the job.

Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley charged Miss Adams with two counts of first degree murder. She was bound over for trial in Municipal Court under $25,000 bond after the arraignment.

Veeck May Have Brain Tumor

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Baseball's Bill Veeck was scheduled to undergo a brain wave test today in efforts to locate a suspected brain tumor.

Veeck's wife, Mary Frances, said it was the "one big test" which would help Mayo Clinic physicians decide whether surgery is indicated.

Soap Box Championship Tomorrow D-Day For Derby Entrant

By JIM STANTON
Courier-Times Staff Writer
ARKON, Ohio — Tomorrow is D-Day for the pride of Lower Bucks County.

Shortly after 2 p.m., 11-year-old Richard Kimmel will zoom down the long green raceway at the drop of the starter's flag for the 24th All-American Soap Box Derby. He'll be competing in the 15th heat of the first round against two other drivers.

Although one of boydom's best racers, the Yardley youngster has remained surprisingly calm amid all the hoopla that has accompanied his three-day stay here in Derby Town.

Tucked away in his secluded lakeside camp outside Akron, young Richard today thought that his chances in tomorrow's race were very good. He'll be vying for $15,000 in college scholarships and other prizes against 153 other drivers from across the country and from six foreign countries.

Poll Taken By Williams

Sampling Shows Opposition To Larger School Districts

A sampling of opinion in Bucks County by State Rep. Alan D. Williams Jr. has indicated considerable opposition to increasing the size of the school districts and reducing the number of districts.

Those who were questioned also are opposed to almost every suggestion of increased taxes which would finance a change in the state's educational setup, the sample showed.

4-Page Questionnaire
Williams sent a four-page questionnaire to every school director, school administrator and Republican committeeman and committeewoman in the county.

Out of 49 early replies, 30 opposed larger school districts to only 16 in favor of them and 30 to 15 opposed the principle that no school district should have less than 4,000 pupils in it.

A bill making both of these changes mandatory has been passed by the state senate and now is before the lower house. Both have been recommended by the governor's special committee on education.

Whether such a small and specialized sampling as that taken by Williams can be projected to the county as a whole is a point sociologists debate.

Close Control
Comments which were written on the returned questionnaires indicated that many people did not like the idea of relinquishing close local control of their schools.

Most of those who commented also did not like the idea of increasing taxes for school purposes.

"I'm against all state taxes," one of them wrote.

All except two of the 49 who were opposed to a suggested 10 mill tax on stocks, bonds and securities, with the tax not applying in Pittsburgh and reduced to two mills in Philadelphia.

Question Ignored
Those two ignored that question. Twenty-eight were opposed to the idea of a community college program partially financed through a local tax and only 17 in favor of it. Twenty-nine thought that additional scholarship help from the state is needed and 19 did not think so.

Here are the votes on some of the questions Williams asked:

On the present setup of Bucks County schools, 31 in favor, 15 who thought that it needs changing.

On larger districts, 16 yes; 30 no. On districts with no less than 4,000 pupils, 15 yes; 30 no.

On taxes: the 10-mill stocks and (Continued on Page 3, Col. 8)

Proponents Still Hopeful, However

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration forces were staggered today by a crucial defeat in the House but hoped to rescue part of President Kennedy's long-range foreign aid borrowing authority in a Senate-House conference committee.

The conferees were expected to begin closed-door huddles next week to work out differences between the House and Senate versions of the President's $4.3 billion foreign aid bill to authorize another year of military and economic assistance abroad.

But Kennedy's request for authority to borrow money directly from the Treasury for five years to finance development loans provided the biggest hurdle.

In rapid-fire order Friday:

—The House shouted down a last-minute attempt to restore the $8.8 billion five-year borrowing authority provision and then approved its $4.3 billion version of the bill for one year on a 287-140 vote.

—The Senate passed, 66-24, its $4.1 billion version of the same program but left intact the five-year borrowing authority. The latter was cut, however, from $8.8 billion to $8 billion.

Democratic leaders were disappointed but undismayed by the House's failure to include in its bill authority for more than a one-year aid program. They were confident they could bring back from conference a bill with enough of what Kennedy wanted to make him reasonably happy.

Learned Hand Dead At 89

NEW YORK (UPI) — Judge Learned Hand, who was quoted so often by the U.S. Supreme Court that he often was called its "10th member," died Friday.

Although the 89-year-old jurist never was appointed to the nation's highest court, tributes today marked him as one of the great contributors to American legal heritage and compared him to such Supreme Court greats as Oliver Wendell Holmes and John Marshall.

down the 974-foot incline, Richard remarked: "My coaster seemed to go very fast today, faster than many of the other cars that I watched."

Lower Bucks County's hopeful appeared to exude quiet confidence as he predicted that he'd win the first heat tomorrow.

Mother Thrilled

"I'm so thrilled," Richard's mother, Mrs. G. B. Kimmel said today. "Somehow I feel that he's going to make it." Richard's parents live at 19 Orchard Way. They arrived with Richard in Akron Wednesday evening.

Tom Coyle, Lower Bucks Soap Box Derby representative, watched the run and was likewise impressed. "I think he's got the stuff to do it," Coyle said.

Richard watched officials make a final inspection of his streamlined coaster yesterday. After he made his test run he returned to Derbytown, boy's camp taken over by the champs. It's located on 205 acres of beautiful wood and waterland with plenty of facilities to keep the youngsters happy.

With 8 In Cabin

He's with eight other youngsters in one of the 23 rustic cabins. "I like the fellows very much," our champ said today. "They are so friendly. Besides they don't fight like the ones at home," the slightly built youngster said.

The Yardley lad said that he would indeed be sorry to go home. This morning Derby fever was at a high pitch in downtown Akron.

Celebrities On Parade

A big celebrities parade with some 2,500 marchers in gay costumes, bands, floats moved into the downtown area about 9:30 a.m. It took more than an hour to pass the Sheraton Mayflower Hotel, Soap Box Derby Headquarters.

Adding zest to the festivities were Eddy Arnold, country and western singer; Martin Milner, and George Maharias, co-stars of the CBS television, "Route 66," and Pete Brown the deputy sheriff in ABC's western thriller "Lawman."

Thus, all that remain are the big races tomorrow. Richard Kimmel, one of the youngest boys to race tomorrow, has come a long way for this race. Not just in distance but in hours also. He began working on his car shortly after Christmas.

Win or lose, the youngster can be assured of returning to Lower Bucks Monday as a symbol of American youth, good sportsmanship and opportunity. That's what the Derby was meant for.

Luis N. Olivero

The viewing for Luis Olivero, 330 Lincoln Ave., Bristol, who died suddenly Thursday, will be held tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock at the John C. Black Funeral Home, 314 Cedar St., Bristol.

Services for Mr. Olivero, who was 33, will be conducted in Puerto Rico on Tuesday. Interment will be in Puerto Rico.

Mr. Olivero is survived by his wife, Rosa; two daughters, Olga and Haydee; son, Luis Jr.; mother, Mrs. Josefa Olivero, of Puerto Rico; brother, Gregory, of Puerto Rico; and sisters, Lydia and Antonia of New York and Elizabeth of Puerto Rico.

Mr. Olivero was an employee of the Bristol Paper Products Company.

Buchman Buried In Allentown

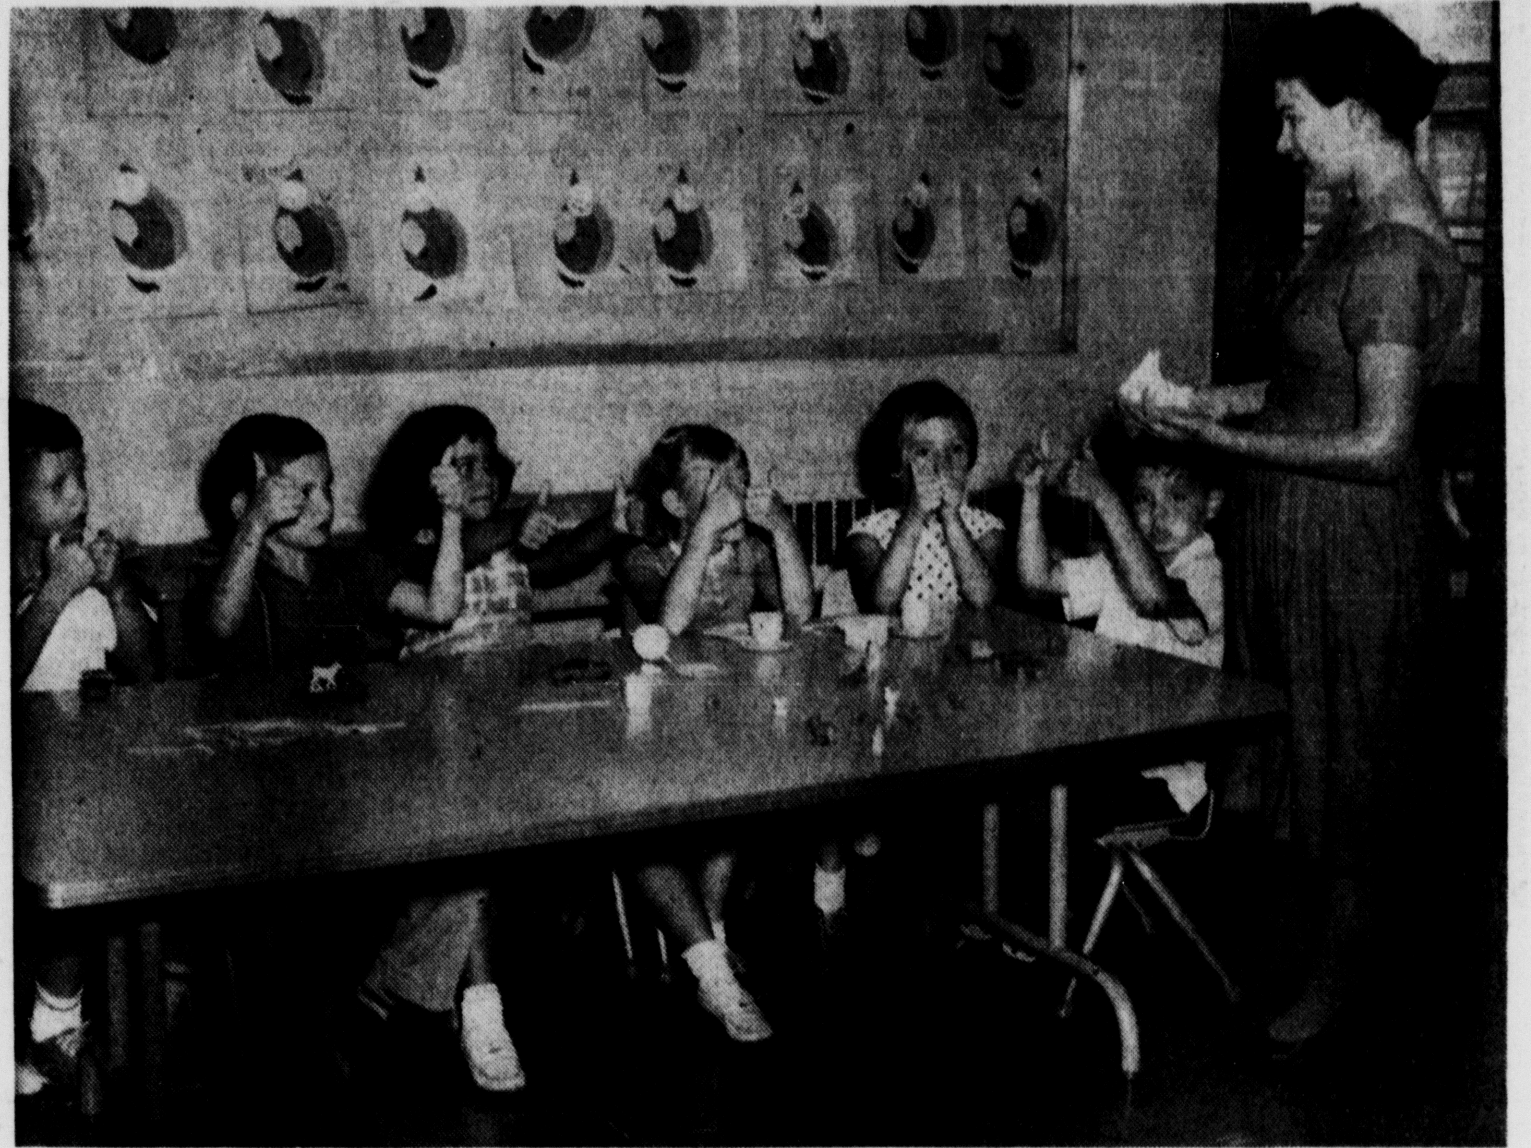

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI)—Dignitaries from throughout the world attended funeral services Friday for Dr. Frank Buchman, Lutheran minister who founded "moral re-armorment" to counter worldliness and foster peace.

Buchman, 83, was buried beside the graves of his parents and a brother at Fairview cemetery after services in St. John's Lutheran Church where he was ordained 60 years ago. More than 1,200 persons attended.

He died of a heart attack Aug. 7 at Freudensdtadt in the Black Forest of West Germany where 23 years ago he conceived moral re-armorment.

Among the notables who tendered eulogies at the services was Rajmohan Gandhi, grandson of Mohandas Gandhi, who said Buchman "is the man of the century."

Toy Gun Bandit Jailed

Rudolph Robinson, 27, of 620 Race St., Bristol, who tried to hold up a 70-year-old storekeeper July 13, was given a one to two year penitentiary sentence yesterday by Bucks County Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite.

Robinson admitted displaying a realistic toy revolver before Mrs. Rose McGrath, owner of a grocery store at 800 Pine St., Bristol.

Patrolman John Crossey said Robinson entered the store in the morning and showed Mrs. McGrath a note saying: "Lady, this is a hold-up. If you scream, I will cut you through or kill you."

Robinson said he did it because he needed money to pay for his life insurance and get his suit from the cleaner. He needed the suit, he said, to play the drums in a small band that night.

Robinson ran from the store when Mrs. McGrath screamed and got nothing. Crossey said she screamed after being choked. Robinson said he did not choke her, but put his hand on her mouth to stop her screams.

Poland Will Repay Loss Of Property

United States citizens who once had physical properties confiscated by the Polish government when that country came under Soviet rule may now apply for reimbursement, the Courier-Times learned today.

Under an agreement reached recently between the United States and the present Polish government, the Polish government will pay a total of $40,000,000 to persons whose properties were confiscated in Poland, provided they were American citizens at the time.

The repayment of these losses is being handled by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States, headed by Dr. Edward Re, who maintains offices in Washington, D.C., and in Poland.

Local Claims

Locally, claims for reimbursement are being handled by Paul Zaleski, attorney for the commission, and by Mrs. Genevieve Gunther-Zacharka of Langhorne, a member of the Polish National Alliance.

All claims, however, must be filed by Sept. 30, reports Mrs. Gunther-Zacharka.

She said that detailed information may be obtained until 5 p.m. today by calling Zaleski at the offices of the Union of Polish Women, 2636 East Allegheny Ave., Philadelphia, GARfield 5-4807.

After today, information and claim forms may be obtained by calling Mrs. Gunther-Zacharka at SKYline 7-4756.

Jet Bomber Crash Kills 2; 2 Survive

LAS ANIMAS, Colo. (UPI) —A Strategic Air Command B47 heavy jet bomber on a training flight crashed and burned in a pasture about 15 miles southeast of here early today, killing two of the four men aboard.

Two of the crew survived by ejecting and parachuting. They suffered minor injuries.

Names were being withheld by SAC.

The plane, based at Davis-Monthan Air Force Base, Tucson, Ariz., with the 303rd Bomb Wing of the 15th Air Force, was not carrying a nuclear weapon.

One of the survivors and the body of one of the dead were located soon after the crash, which occurred about 4:15 a.m. EDT. The second survivor walked to a farmhouse and hitched a ride to Lamar, about 15 miles northeast of the crash site.

The second body was found about four hours after the accident, ending an extensive search by military and law enforcement personnel. Helicopters were dispatched from Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, and Ft. Carson, Colo. Ft. Carson also had sent two L-19 planes to aid in the search.

It was reported an ejector malfunction may have caused one of the deaths, but the report was not confirmed.

Train Fire

the two cars were taken to Railroad Ave., between Wilson and Trenton Aves., Bristol, where a fire hydrant was accessible.

Other Trains Passed

The boxcar is owned by the Illinois Central Railway Express Agency. It was traveling on the track nearest the highway. Trains on the other two tracks were not detained and passed periodically during the fire.

Hopkins said firemen attempted to enter the boxcar but a door on the highway side was jammed and had to be chopped open. Contents prevented access to the area where the fire broke out so firemen threw parcel post and mail bags out in an effort to combat it.

The boxcar had three other doors — on the other side nearer the two rail lanes and on either side of front and back. However, Hopkins stated that the car was loaded from the opposite side and the three other doors apparently were blocked with contents.

The rear of the car in which the blaze erupted did not receive as much damage to contents as the front half of the car (toward the engine), since most of it had been removed. However, contents remained in the front half even after the fire spread there.

Two trucks from the Pennsylvania Railroad headquarters Jersey City, N.J., took contents strewn at the area to Trenton under orders of the postal authorities.

Man To Get Mental Test

Bucks County Judge John P. Fullam yesterday sent John Neuman 26, of Philadelphia to Norristown State Hospital for a mental examination after Neuman admitted using worthless checks to buy two new cars.

Neuman said he bought a Ford from McCafferty Ford, Route 1, Middletown Township "because I had no place to stay. I used it to sleep in," he said.

"I put three thousand miles on it just driving around nowhere."

The Ford was purchased with a false check for $2,199.

The second car was a Rambler, purchased from Feasterville Auto Center with a bogus $2,961 check.

"I changed the license tags, hoping somebody would spot it," Neuman said. "I didn't want to go right to the police."

He faces additional bad check charges in Bensalem Township and in Wisconsin. Middletown Township Detective Robert Roach and Lower Southampton Township Police Chief Edward Wunsch testified about the bad check transactions.

Township Sets Speed Traps

Speed traps are in operation in various sections of Bristol Township, according to Police Chief John R. Stewart.

An increase in vehicular mishaps in this area was given as the reason for the speed traps by Chief Stewart. They will continue to be in operation in the near future, especially when schools reopen.

"Speed traps help remind motorists of their driving responsibilities," Stewart stated, noting that over 100 speeders received violations via the speed trap system last month.
